As any good shopper knows, finding the right jeans or the perfect gift takes stamina. Lately, New York City retail-store restaurants have been offering shoppers a way to fuel up without leaving the premises. Here are five of the best spots for a shopper's timeout.

1 ABC KITCHEN

WHAT Home decorating is hard work. Luckily, ABC Carpet & Home boasts this critically acclaimed restaurant by Jean-Georges Vongerichten. Entering the rustic space helps you leave your woes behind, as will the pizzas, pastas and entrees from sea bass ($27) to lobster ($37) to cheeseburgers ($21). Reservations accepted.

WHERE 35 E. 18th St., off Broadway
INFO 212-475-5829, abckitchennyc.com

2 ARMANI / RISTORANTE

WHAT Few things in the fashion world trump Giorgio Armani. So whether you're browsing the gowns or getting fitted for a suit, add Armani/Ristorante, on the third floor of the eponymous store, to your list. The space is a sexy, low-lit room; the menu ranges from a simple burrata ($17) to duck ($32); the pastas are the sure thing. Reservations accepted.

WHERE 717 Fifth Ave. at 56th Street
INFO 212-207-1902, armani.com/lifestyle

3 LE TRAIN BLEU

WHAT Tucked above the housewares department is Bloomie's original restaurant. Away from the hustle, with sweeping views of Manhattan, Le Train Bleu serves classics like chicken paillard ($19), salad niçoise ($21) and steak frites ($26) in an elegant turn-of-the-century European dining car. Reservations accepted.

WHERE 1000 Third Ave. at 59th Street, sixth floor
INFO 212-705-2100, bloomingdales.com

4 FRED'S AT BARNEYS NEW YORK

WHAT The quintessential spot for ladies who lunch, it's here that Jimmy Choo-clad fashionistas are found in high volume waiting during the midday rush. Once seated, look around:

5 BOUTIQUE EAT SHOP

WHAT Is art your passion? Chelsea's Boutique Eat Shop is a one-of-a-kind experience that incorporates commissioned installations from local galleries with fine dining. Whether it's an architectural model or a painting that grabs you, the setting is a constantly changing performance space that serves excellent global cuisine such as seared tuna ($18) and lamb chops ($28). Reservations accepted.
